DISCOVER THE TASTE OF UKRAINE

Winemaking on the territories of modern Ukraine has a rich history spanning over 2,800 years. The ongoing struggle for control of Ukrainian territory has lasted for centuries and persists to this day. This has also impacted on the evolution of winemaking in the area – leading to its decline in certain regions, complete disappearance in others, or flourishing with renewed strength in some areas.

Currently, Ukraine is embarking on a new historical journey that encompasses the search for lost terroirs, the rediscovery of indigenous grape varieties, experimentation with new technologies, and the reevaluation of traditional wine production methods. The full-scale war initiated by Russia has profoundly impacted the industry. Numerous wineries have been occupied, others have suffered damage and looting, and several vineyards have been mined and abandoned. Nevertheless, we continue our fight!

In recent years, Ukrainian wines have achieved remarkable success on the international stage, securing numerous awards and earning recognition from the most prestigious wine challenges and critics. We are increasing global awareness, and today, Wines of Ukraine are available in various countries, including the UK, USA, Japan, Poland, the Baltic states, and Nordic countries, etc.

Ukraine is an ancient wine-growing region of Europe, and we invite you to explore it from a fresh perspective, experience the diversity of our terroirs, and savor new flavors! We are confident that Wines of Ukraine will be the next big thing!

Bud'mo, world!

MODERN WINEMAKING IN UKRAINE

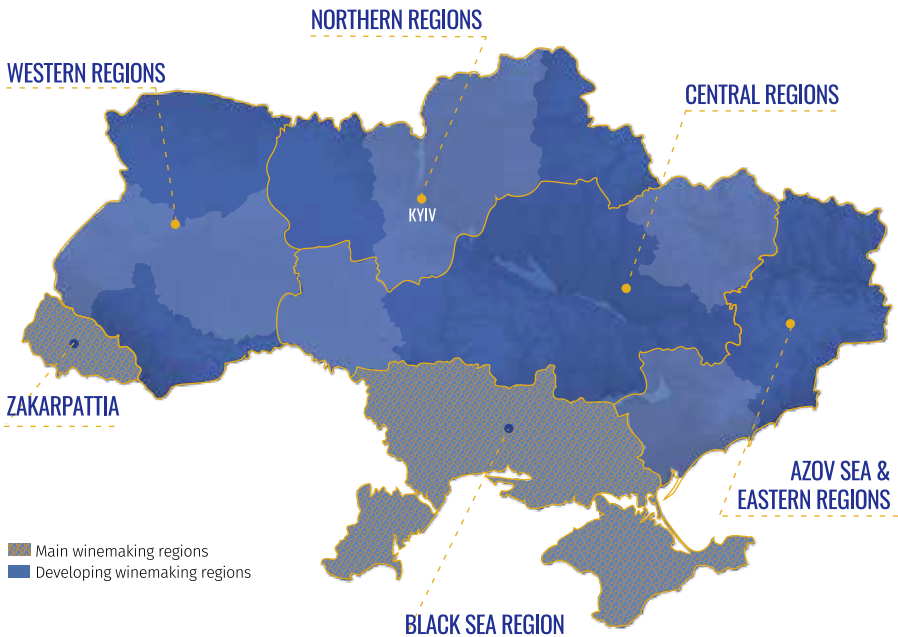

A significant trend in contemporary Ukrainian winemaking history is the emphasis on quality rather than quantity. Additionally, there has been a surge in the production of craft wines and the extension of vineyards into non-traditional (cooler) viticulture areas. There is also a notable rise in the local consumption of wines, indicating a shift away from traditional strong alcoholic beverages such as vodka and brandy, which have historically dominated Ukrainian beverage preferences, towards a greater appreciation of wines.

GEOGRAPHY

Ukraine is located between the 44th and 52nd latitudes in the Northern Hemisphere. The landscape is primarily flat, interspersed with occasional hills, featuring the Carpathian Mountains to the west and the Crimean Mountains on the Crimean Peninsula in the south.

The climate of Ukraine varies significantly between the mainland and the Crimean Peninsula. The mainland experiences a mostly continental climate, characterized by hot summers and cold winters, often accompanied by significant frost risk in early spring. This continental climate becomes less pronounced in the west, particularly in the Zakarpattia region, where summers are less intense and winters are milder. Annual rainfall ranges from 350-400 mm in the south to 1200-1500 mm in the Carpathian Mountains. Conversely, the southern coastal regions of the Crimean Peninsula are dominated by a Mediterranean climate, featuring mild winters and moderately hot, dry summers.

In addition to rich black soils, Ukraine has limestone, volcanic rocks, loam, and sandy soils. Myriads of rivers and lakes, two seas (Black and Azov), slopes and mountains, add to the creation of unique terroirs.

VITICULTURE ZONES

Commercial viticulture primarily focuses on the southern regions of the country, where the warmest climatic conditions are conducive to traditional viticulture. Although various styles of wines are produced in these areas, red wines are a benchmark here.

However, with the recent growth of craft winemaking, vineyards have emerged throughout the country. Many new wineries established in the last five years are situated in cooler climate zones, where excellent white and sparkling wines are predominantly produced. Nevertheless, in the northern regions, vineyards require frost protection, which can significantly increase labor costs for maintenance.

ZAKARPATTIA

An important viticultural and winemaking region of Ukraine with a rich historical and cultural heritage. Zakarpattia, bordering Hungary and Slovakia, has traditionally been known as a region for white wines. However, in recent years, there has been a significant trend towards red varieties. The climate of the region is favorable for winegrowing, since the territory is closed from the northern cold winds by the Carpathian mountains, creating a special microclimate. There is a lot of sunshine here, and vineyards grow mostly on the slopes.

NORTHERN REGIONS OF UKRAINE

This area hosts fewer vineyards, and winemaking in the northern regions poses considerable risks. Winter temperatures can drop to as low as -27 degrees Celsius, necessitating protective measures like covering the grapevines to shield them from frost. This significantly impacts the labor costs associated with maintaining the vineyards. To counteract these challenges, winemakers are exploring the use of PIWI grapes. Additionally, some wineries purchase grapes from southern regions to produce their wines.

BLACK SEA REGION

The primary viticultural and winemaking zone in Ukraine, housing the majority of vineyards and wineries. This encompasses the administrative regions of Odesa, Mykolaiv, Kherson, and Crimea*, lying between 44 and 48 parallel. Wine-making in this region has a rich history, dating back 2500 years during the colonization by ancient Greeks. And even earlier, 6000 years ago, these territories were inhabited by the representatives of Trypillya culture, who also cultivated vines.

The area features numerous salty estuaries, bays and lakes, with large territories covered in steppes. Droughts are not uncommon in the southern part of the Odesa region.

Some of the finest full-bodied red wines in Ukraine are crafted here, and the region boasts a rich diversity of local and indigenous grape varieties.

There are 4 Registered Geographical Indications in the area: PDO Yalpuh, PDO Chabag, PGI Acha-Abag, PGI Prydunaiska Bessarabia

WESTERN&CENTRAL REGIONS OF UKRAINE

The viticultural and winemaking map of western and central Ukraine is constantly changing, encompassing various ethno-geographical subregions such as Halychyna, Bukovyna, and Podillia. Despite their cooler climates, wine-making has a long historical presence in these areas dating back to hundreds of years. However, during Soviet times, many vineyards were removed due to the labor-intensive nature of cultivating hilly vineyards. Presently, there is a resurgence in viticulture and winemaking in these regions. The focus often lies on producing excellent high-acid and aromatic whites, along with vibrant rosés. Additionally, many winemakers are experimenting with amber, sparkling wines and PIWI grapes.

The most developing wine regions in the west are Lviv, Ternopil and Khmelnytskiy, in the center are Vinnytsia, Dnipro and Kharkiv.

EXPERIMENTS: Some Ukrainian wineries successfully grow and produce wines from Tempranillo, Timorasso, Albarino, Pinotage, Zweigelt, Blaufränkisch, etc. Also, with the development of winemaking in more northern and central-western regions, Johanniter, Solaris, Jupiter and other frost-resistant varieties became quite popular.

MUST-TASTE LOCAL GRAPES

TELTI-KURUK

Descriptors: white flowers, citrus fruits, honey notes

Telti-Kuruk is a rare Vitis vinifera variety belonging to the group of varieties of the Black Sea basin. It's indigenous to Ukraine and can only be found here. Telti Kuruk was brought to the territory of modern Ukraine by the Turks in the 5th century. The grape's name means "foxtail" in Turkish — it was called so because of the clusters of a specific shape, resembling a fox's tail. Telti-Kuruk is used for the production of dry white wines and, at some point, was actively used as a grape for sparkling wines.

CHARACTERISTICS OF WINES: young wines have a pale straw color, medium-pronounced aroma with notes of white flowers and citrus fruits. As it ages, it develops notes of honey and sweet fruit. It possesses medium to above-medium acidity. The finest examples can be aged in a bottle for up to 6-8 years.

SUKHOLIMANSKY

Descriptors: herbal notes, white flowers,

Originated by the crossing of Chardonnay and Plavay grape, Sukholimansky grape variety was created in the second half of the 20th century by Tairov Institute of Viticulture and Winemaking based in Odesa.

CHARACTERISTICS OF WINES: Wines from this variety have a light golden color, rich fruity aroma with tones of pear and white flowers, light notes of nutmeg. It has a harmonious taste with notes of melon, white plum and pleasant sourness in the aftertaste.

TELTI-KURUK

MUST-TASTE LOCAL GRAPES

CITRON OF MAGARACH

Descriptors: orange, lime, sweet tropical fruits

White grape variety created by Magarach Institute of Viticulture and Winemaking in Yalta. Due to its good frost resistance, it is also popular in northern wine-growing regions of Ukraine.

CHARACTERISTICS OF WINES: The color of the wine is from light straw to amber yellow. The aroma has pronounced citrus tones with a predominance of orange and lime, with vivid notes of banana and pineapple. The palate is quite full and round with low acidity and a lengthy and fresh finish.

BAKATOR

Descriptors: apple, pear, mineral

In the mid-20th century, this grape held significant importance in the Zakarpattia region for wine production. However, it has nearly vanished since then. Only a handful of enthusiasts are endeavoring to breathe new life into this grape. It needs time to ripen, so sunny slopes are the best for it. Bakator is an ideal grape to produce sparkling wines.

CHARACTERISTICS OF WINES: Exhibiting a light straw color, with notes of green and stone fruits on the nose, and boasting refreshing acidity.

MUST-TASTE LOCAL GRAPES

ODESA BLACK (ALIBERNET)

Descriptors: black pepper, blackberry, jammy notes

This red grape called Odesa Black, or Alibernet, originates from the crossing of Alicante Bouschet and Cabernet Sauvignon. This variety was created in 1948 by Tairov Institute of Viticulture and Winemaking in Tairovo village. Odesa Black is grown in Ukraine as well in Slovakia, Czech Republic and Hungary. Most winemakers claim that this variety is not easy to work with, as it needs a lot of attention to reach proper ripeness.

CHARACTERISTICS OF WINES: Odesa Black produces dark, intense and fruity red wines with distinct mint and black berry aromas and velvety jam notes.

Chateau Chizay was founded in 1995. It has a deep connection to the local wine-making tradition. The chateau stands at the spot where an old winery of the 17th century was once located, in the middle of a winemaking valley named Chizay.

Zakarpattia (Transcarpathia) is a famous wine region of the Western Ukraine, bordering Hungary, Poland, Romania and Slovakia. Here mild sunlight is wonderfully combined with optimal rainfall, and Carpathian Mountains protect the vineyards from northern winds. Soil, full of minerals, adds unique aromas and taste to the grapes, producing the wines with a very special terroir character. Chateau Chizay owns 272 hectares of the most beautiful and well-kept vineyards, as well as a modern wine making complex consisting of an up-to-date winery, a wine-tasting hall, a museum of wine history, a nice restaurant and a mini hotel.

Traditional and kosher wines by Chateau Chizay are exported to the United States, Canada, Japan, Israel, UK, China, Nigeria, Hungary, Poland, Estonia, Finland and other countries.

Sass Krisztian Winery is located in Zakarpattia in the historic Berehovo wine region, in the village of Kidyosh. The multi-generational family winery has been welcoming guests and bottling wines since the early 2000s.

Vineyards are located in the Hazanéző, this area has a volcanic base and a clay upper layer. Some of the vines growing here are over 60 years old. In 2019, 2.3 hectares of newly planted vineyard was added to the existing 8 hectares.

The Sass team is focusing on growing indigenous varieties of the Carpathian Basin. The main grape varieties here are Welschriesling, Bakator, Király Leányka, Hárslevelű, Cserzegei Fűszeres and Serimi Zold, as well as such international grapes as Cabernet Sauvignon and Saperavi.

The winery was founded by winemaker Carlo Sass. Currently, he makes his wines together with his grandson, Krisztian Sass. The basis of Sass philosophy is to grow grapes and make wines with as little intervention as possible. Through spontaneous fermentation, a combination of modern and traditional technologies and experiments, they try to make wines that can show that Kidyosh is one of the best winemaking microregions in Zakarpattia.

Tiras Winery as well as a “my Wine” brand is the story of a fourth-generation winemaker Eduard Gorodetsky. He has devoted his entire life to winemaking. For 20 years Eduard worked at Odesa Cognac Factory, of which the last 5 years he held the position of CEO.

But the dream of establishing his own family winery and making his own wine never left him. That’s why “my Wine” was created in 2021, which became an extension of Eduard as a winemaker, as a dreamer, as a person, as an enthusiast.

The winery is located on the unique and picturesque territory of the high, steep easter bank of the Dniester Estuary near the Dniester Canyon in the Roksolany village.

Gorodetsky makes wines from grapes that grow in Bessarabia, Izmail and Bolgrad regions: there’s a lot of sunshine there, and the grapes ripen best. My Wine brand works with the following varieties: Pinot Noir, Pinot Blanc, Chardonnay, Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, Riesling and local Odesa Black.

Awards: my Sparkling Wine Rose Brut - Platinum medal from Ukraine Wine&Spirits Awards 2023. Chardonnay and Rose Brut represent Ukraine at La Cité du Vin museum in Bordeaux.

46 Parallel Wine Group is a Ukrainian family company established in early 2020. The company's wines are created exclusively from Ukrainian grapes, grown on the 46 parallel in the south of Ukraine. The unique climate and terroir features of Ukraine's 46 parallel enable the winemakers to create wines of the highest quality. It is no coincidence that the best wineries of Burgundy and Bordeaux are also located on the same 46 parallel.

46 Parallel Wine Group has been introducing a sustainable trend for quality Ukrainian wine, acknowledged by international experts and resulting in high export demand. 46 Parallel produces two premium wine collections - Grand Admiral and El Capitan. Both collections are produced in limited volumes with each bottle having its personal numbering.

46 Parallel Wine Group has won more than 70 awards from domestic and international tasting competitions, including gold and silver medals from Mondial de Bruxelles, medals from the USA Wine Ratings, Grand from Sélections Mondiales des Vins Canada, and several awards from the London Wine Competition. Kolonist is a family winery situated in a famous Ukrainian wine producing appellation – Danubian Bessarabia (Odesa region). The 33 hectares of vines grow on loam soils rich in minerals, with deep layers of lime. Low yields, manual harvesting, unique terroir with perfect climate conditions combined with modern equipment from France, Germany and Italy and the traditional French 100-year-old oak barriques gives the Kolonist a right to be proud of its high-quality wines.

Kolonist wines have been represented twice in the Parliament of the UK, in the Embassies of Belgium, France, Poland, Bulgaria, Greece and Germany, in the Embassy of Ukraine to the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland. In December 2011 an outstanding world wine expert Oz Clarke and top UK wine journalists highly estimated Kolonist wines. In 2013 at the World Wine Exhibition in London, organized by famous wine critics M. Bettane and Th. Desseauve, Kolonist wines signed in to the TOP three wines in the Wine Premier nomination. Kolonist wines were awarded with honorary title "Commended" by the judges of one of the most influential competition "International Wine Challenge" which takes place annually in London: Cabernet Merlot 2013 and Chardonnay 2016 «Haut de gamme», and Cabernet Merlot LX.

BOLGRAD

Bolgrad Winery, established in 1998 by two winemaking families, Marushevsky and Maslennikov, is yet another good example of winemaking traditions and new technologies combined.

The vineyards of Bolgrad are located in a favorable climate zone with low rainfalls and hot summers, ideal for growing powerful grape varieties, especially red varieties, resulting in wines with full extractability and pronounced tannins that get well-rounded and soft after at least 1 year of ageing. The unique terroir combines the salinity from the Black Sea and the freshness from the Lake Yalpug. Controlled yields are limited to a maximum of 5 tons per hectare, without irrigation. Due to high fertility of soils the number of vines per hectare ranges from 2 to 3 thousand. Varieties: Chardonnay, Cabernet Sauvignon, Saperavi, Sukholimansky, Odesa Black, Pinot Grigio, Muscat Ottonel.

Bolgrad is exporting their wines to Sweden, Lithuania, Moldova, Kyrgyzstan, Kazakhstan, Japan, Poland, Estonia, Nigeria, India, and the United Kingdom.

Despite the great destruction and danger, the winery is noted for its unwavering faith in the art of winemaking and the desire to produce wines of high quality. The experience, expertise and talents of the winery's team hasn't been wasted: Stoic Winery has launched the production of their wines made of several European white and red varieties, such as Pinot Blanc, Riesling, Pinot Grigio, Merlot and Pinot Noir, under the brand of Dnipro Hills. Chateau Pinot, another wonderful winery from the Odesa region, provided their intact vilification facilities for Stoic to produce their new wine collection. This collaboration is an impressive example of partnership, support and solidarity uniting Ukrainians in difficult times.

Koblevo, Ukraine's largest winery, is nestled between the Black Sea and the picturesque Tiligulsky Estuary. In the 2500-hectare estate, more than 4 million grape vines of classic European varieties grow along the enchanting 46th parallel, similar to that of the French Beaujolais region.

Carefully selecting grape seedlings from Europe (France, Italy, and Germany), the winemakers of Koblevo cultivate varieties like Aligote, Chardonnay, Sauvignon Blanc, and more. With 3333 seedlings per hectare, they optimize yield. All grapes go through meticulous control. Selected grapes are harvested manually at night, shortly before dawn, in order to preserve the aromas and taste of the grapes.

The winemakers take holistic care of their grapes, setting fires to keep them warm in winter, planting roses nearby to protect them from insects, and practicing natural, chemical-free viticultural methods. Their commitment to quality extends to every aspect, from manual dawn harvesting to applying the most modern and state-of-the-art processing and vinification equipment. Beykush Winery is a family winery located next to the Black Sea in Chernomorka village, Mykolaiv region. It was established in 2010 as the adventure of a family who have chosen to love the land beaten by winds and drenched in sunshine.

The 14 hectares Beykush vineyards grow in unique plots of the Beykush peninsula, the shores of which are washed by the Berezan estuary on one side and by Beykush Bay on the other.

Grape varieties: Chardonnay, Pinot Grigio, Riesling, Sauvignon Blanc, Pinot Noir, Merlot, Cabernet Sauvignon, Rkatsiteli, Saperavi, Tempranillo, Pinotage, Timorasso, Albariño. The winegrowers of Beykush also expertly work with the Ukrainian indigenous white grape Telti Kuruk, which is the most important and unique for this region.

The winemakers of Beykush are well-known for their successful experimenting with blends. They use clay and concrete amphorae, as well as oak barriques, for fermentation of our wines.

Beykush wines have won the highest awards at international competitions - Decanter Awards, IWSC, Ukraine Wine&Spirits Awards.

Biologist Winery is based in the village of Lisnyky near Kyiv. For several years, they have been practicing organic and biodynamic methods of viticulture and winemaking. Biologist wines are produced with minimal interference, spontaneous fermentation and strict temperature control. The winemakers are also using gravitational technology.

Biologist Winery owners have two plots of vineyards in Lisnyky and Bezradychy, in Kyiv region, as well as one in Odesa region. To increase the immunity of the vine and soil, the Biologist winegrowers avoid using artificial chemicals, such as herbicides and pesticides, while using natural herbal and mineral preparations instead. Their plots can boast a remarkable collection of grape varieties. You can find international grapes like Pinot Noir, Cabernet Sauvignon, Grüner Veltliner, Müller-Thurgau, Weissburgunder (Pinot Blanc), Gewürztraminer, Riesling, Chardonnay, Aligote. As well as famous Ukrainian indigenous grape, Telti-Kuruk, which, until now, has been grown only in the south of Ukraine, in Odesa and Mykolaiv regions.

Sulfites are used very moderately. Most wines undergo long maceration (6-10 days) with the addition of dried cluster stems. Some wines are made with spontaneous fermentation.

Big Wines is a young and ambitious Ukrainian winemaking company launched under the umbrella of Vinos de La Luz, a big winemaking group which has production facilities in Argentina, two DOs of Spain, Italy (Tuscany) and the USA (California). The company was founded in 2019 by a Ukrainian wine enthusiast Natalia Burlachenko and an Argentinian winemaker and businessman Ricardo Nunes. Big Wines philosophy is part of the large Vinos de La Luz family, created by Ricardo Núñez, which is known for its careful attitude to the terroir and places of origin of the grapes.

The company's first wine, BIG WINES BIG ART 2020 Ivan Marchuk limited edition, was released in February 2023, and has already won several prestigious awards from the international contests, including gold medals from Mundus Vini 2023, Berliner Wine Trophy 2023, and Cervim-Viticultura Eroica 2023.

Big Wines is a company with a unique concept that combines Ukrainian resilience, perseverance and love for the native land together with international experience, world traditions and a high level of responsibility. For Big Wines each bottle is unique, it contains the genetic code of the area where the grapes come from.

Medovy Spas Mead Brewery launched in 2018 is a modern industrial-scale technological enterprise based in the Kyiv region, and one of the first technological mead breweries in Ukraine. Natural meads made from honey are part of Ukraine's historical heritage. Medovy Spas Mead Brewery revives and brings to a qualitatively new level the tradition of mead-making with the help of modern technologies. Traditional Ukrameads almost went into complete oblivion. Medovy Spas is reviving this tradition, giving an opportunity to taste an authentic Ukrainian drink, combining ancient mead recipes and modern production technologies.

One of the company's flagship products is Cikera, historically known as "honey wine". Cikera is obtained by fermentation of honey, fruit and berry juices directly squeezed without adding sugar and alcohol. The harmonious combination of these components gives the drink a sophisticated floral aroma, fruity character, rich texture and distinct aftertaste.

The company's product range also includes bright sparkling meads and rich aged meads.

Honey Badger is a Ukrainian producer of gins and liquors, launched by a young generation of Ukrainians who have spent most of their lives abroad and came back to Ukraine to start their own business.

The company's goal is to gather a collection of traditional recipes of fruit, plant and honey-based alcohol drinks from all regions of Ukraine and recreate them in up-to-date production.

The enthusiastic company founders traveled a lot and visited many internationally renowned producers whose products are based on awe-inspiring traditions reflected in the family recipes, the love of work and gratitude to their land and the surrounding nature, and craftsmanship which has grown from a small family business in the backyard into a prosperous company.

With the love for their own country and the desire to recreate traditional Ukrainian drinks, the idea of setting up Honey Badger's own production in Ukraine was born. The founders started with their own family recipes that they use for their production. The most famous Honey Badger products include Horseradish Nastoyanka (tincture), Bee Infused Nastoyanka, Honeycombs Infused Nastoyanka, Dubivka Kozatska, Porichka, as well as Troyandovy dessert drink.

PROFESSIONALS ABOUT UKRAINIAN WINES*

OZ CLARKE OBE British wine writer, actor, television presenter and broadcaster

“Ukrainian winemakers are doing a really good job with Appassimento wines. Odesa Black and Saperavi, as well as Rkatsiteli, they were all so delicious! And they didn't taste like French wines, or Italian, Spanish or Portuguese — they tasted like Ukrainian wines!”- during Three Wine Men tasting in London

SARAH ABBOTT MW founder of Swirl Wine Group

“The wines, I must admit, are quite new to me but I've really enjoyed showing them to people. I would say that that is a characteristic of Ukrainian wines which is a certain freshness and brightness. So, they are actually very subtle, lively and the quality is really high. These aren't wines that you choose out of sympathy, I would say that they're really exciting. I'm rather ashamed that I haven't tried them before, but I'm very glad that I've tried them now” - during London Wine Fair 2023

THOMAS BRANDL wine critic, Ambassador of Concours Mondial de Bruxelles and Vinexpo, owner of xenos.com

“I'm impressed by the rise in quality of the wines especially now, considering the challenges of war. Odesa Black and Telti-Kuruk were well known to me from my previous visits to Ukraine, but they presented a completely new experience for most attendees of ProWein. For the future I would suggest you to focus as much as possible on Ukrainian indigenous grape varieties, they are what makes a difference” - interview for Drinks+

MIQUEL HUDIN wine writer, Decanter World Wine Awards judge

“The Ukrainians have shown how powerful the belief in one's right to exist is as they continue to fight for their survival as a nation. So too will the wine trade also endure, especially with the support of the international wine community” - article for Decanter Magazine

ASSOCIATION OF CRAFT WINEMAKERS AND WINES OF UKRAINE TEAM

Wines of Ukraine is a brand initiated and founded by the Ukrainian Association of Craft Winemakers.

The Association was established in 2021 in order to coordinate and develop Ukrainian winemaking industry, as well as to enhance the competitiveness of Ukrainian wines internationally, and to promote the brand of Wines of Ukraine.

Besides that, we drive Ukraine's export strategy by helping wineries to reach their consumers at the major international markets by participating in international fairs, festivals, organizing tastings, seminars and hospitality programs.

Our mission is to establish a robust brand for Wines of Ukraine and to contribute to the international success of the national wine industry.

During the war in our country, we are also committed to assisting in the reconstruction of destroyed wineries and the demining of vineyards that have been liberated from occupation.
